REKENREKS

Originating in the Netherlands and used effectively in several other countries, Rekenreks or “number racks” are widely used part of the DfE / NCETM Mastering Number Programme. They are a fabulous resource for helping children to move on from counting, towards subitising and then on to calculating. They support the development of number facts and efficient calculation strategies.

You will see a clear connection to our Number Frames as well as to a variety of other resources such as Number Tracks, the Counting Bus / Train, and the Slavonic Abacus. The Maths Recovery Programmes also make extensive use of Rekenreks and Number Frames, and these therefore form part of the kits available on page 31.

We love Autopress Education's fabulous maths resources but especially the hands-on and multisensory resources that are essential tools to ensure that learners with dyscalculia and maths difficulties build secure maths foundations. For place value we love the base ten blocks, place value flip stands, and place value sliders and we wouldn't be without the amazing place value dice to help us to create lots of games and make maths fun! For supporting the development of number sense, we love to use the counting frames, bead strings, number tracks and part/whole cards using the two-sided counters. There are so many great resources it's hard to pick a favourite!

YES, BUT WHY? TEACHING FOR UNDERSTANDING IN MATHEMATICS - ED SOUTHALL

Getting the right answers in maths is only half the problem. Understanding why what you're doing works is the part that often stumps children and teachers alike. Does maths feel like a collection of random rules and steps that somehow lead you to an answer? Don't worry you're not alone.

Ask yourself: Why do we have odd and even numbers? Why do two negative numbers multiply to make a positive? Yes, but why? Answers all of your questions, and sheds light on the hidden connections between everything in mathematics at school. Maths makes sense. It always has, but until now maybe no-one ever showed you.

MATHS RECOVERY KITS

MR01 & MR02

The Maths Recovery kits have been created with the guidance and approval of the Maths Recovery Council UK and Ireland, and provide the essential resources needed to support teachers and teaching assistants implementing maths intervention programmes.

The purple group kits (MR01 and MR02) include essential manipulatives such as covered numeral tracks and numeral rolls, bead strings, five-wise and pairwise ten frames, arithmetic racks, arrow cards, dice, digit cards and double-sided counters in a handy storage tray with lid. The resources are versatile and will enable teachers to advance interactive maths learning and the development of problem-solving skills to support the diverse learning needs within the classroom.

This kit is supplied with the book "Teaching Number in the Classroom with 4-8 year-olds" which focuses on developing a solid foundation in early numeracy such as number words and numerals, counting, structuring number, two digit addition and subtraction and early multiplication and division. The book also provides access to a companion website with video demonstrations and printable resources included.

The red group kits (MR03) targets more advanced numerical concepts, such as place value, structuring numbers 1 to 20, mental addition and subtraction to 100, multiplication and division and written calculation. This kit is supplied with the book "Developing Number Knowledge - Assessment, Teaching and Intervention with 7 to 11 year olds" and also provides access to a companion website with printable resources included.

Over my years of working in teaching and specific learning difficulties, I have found Autopress resources absolutely fantastic. Not only are they curriculum based, neuro-inclusive and hugely practical, but they are also extremely affordable. I have also found Lucy Partridge's passion and wide interest in education to be invaluable. As an ex-teacher, she really gets it and works hard to create resources and materials that work not just for our learners but for time and cash strapped educators. She listens and provides! Thank you Autopress.

Louise Selby - Dyslexia Specialist
